

Tara Crawford Roth

BUSINESS & LIFE COACHING

Tara Crawford Roth, CEC, is a certified intuitive Business Coach. As a lifelong intuitive and former senior executive specializing in personal development and training programs, she offers the unusual and powerful combination of hands-on business experience coupled with compelling intuition, well-honed communication abilities and improvisational performance skills. Tara is a poised, animated, and motivating coach and intuitive and her passion is to instill more fun, creativity and insight in the lives of others.

She has over 20 years of executive management experience in a variety of multinational organizations where she specialized in counseling senior executives to clarify and achieve their professional goals while creating and leading personal development training programs.

Her clients are successful professionals who want more out of their life; more meaning, more satisfaction and more connection to who they really are beyond the roles they play each day. They want to uncover their gifts and experience what is possible for their life.

Tara's clients describe her as "candid, engaging, compassionate, challenging, and inspirational." Working with Tara, you will experience results and the support, enthusiasm and advocacy you need to readily achieve your goals, navigate through change and spark your passions in life.

In addition to her coaching practice, Tara is a sought after motivational speaker, teacher and a trainer for the International Coaching Federation (ICF) accredited iPEC coaching certification program.

Additionally, she is a Shamanic initiate and the Founder of the New England Holistic Chamber of Commerce, a non-profit organization dedicated to supporting holistic professionals through creating networking and business development opportunities within a community of like-minded business people throughout the region. You can learn more about this organization at www.neholisticchamber.org.